How to use the telephone

The telephone number consists of the following parts; the first is the area number, and the rest is the personal number. In case only two parts are written, the area number has been omitted. When you call in the same city (town, village), you don't have to dial the area number. The number that begins with "0120" is a free-dial. When you use the public phone, you have to use coins (only 10 yen and 100 yen coins) or a telephone card. Take off the receiver first, deposit a coin or insert a telephone card. After you hear the dial tone, dial the number.
